

Please join us on this small trail from the William Morris Gallery to Vestry House Museum. On the way we will be stopping off to remember theatres, adult education centres and cinemas from our recent past. We will view large open spaces and stop to wonder where all the books have gone.

Now that everything must justify itself at the accountant's altar of cost effectiveness, arts groups, clubs, rehearsal space and drop-in centres are threatened or gone because meeting rooms have closed or become too expensive to hire. Even orchestras and choirs will become silent.

If you think there's more to life than working, sleeping, and shopping – join us on this guided walk with speeches. If you arrive in fancy dress or wonderful hats that's great, bring a flag, drum or guitar. Bring children; it's their future that's under threat. We want to show how arts, life and leisure are connected and we want the destruction to stop.

Assemble Sunday 9 September outside the closed toilet in front of Lloyd Park main gates, Forest Road E17, at 1pm.

Part of e17 Art Trail 2007.
